

What is MCP?

<https://claude.com/download>

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the URL claude.com/download in the address bar. The browser interface includes standard navigation buttons (back, forward, search), a star icon for bookmarks, and a download icon. To the right of the address bar are buttons for "Enter passphrase" and "Finish update". Below the address bar is a toolbar with links to various websites like GitHub, ChatGPT, and Kaggle.

The main content area features the Claude logo (a stylized orange asterisk) and the word "Claude". To the right are buttons for "Contact sales" and "Try Claude". A navigation menu icon is also present. Below this, there are two buttons: "Download" on the left and "Explore here" with a dropdown arrow on the right.

The central text on the page reads: "Claude stays ready in the background—there when you need it, never in your way when you don't."

At the bottom, there are three download links for different operating systems: "macOS" (with Apple logo), "Windows" (with Windows logo), and "Windows (arm64)" (with Windows logo).

The browser's status bar at the bottom shows the date and time: "Mon Oct 20 10:01 AM".
